GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.
MINISTRY OF HOME AFFAIRS.

From

M.W.W.M.Yeatts, Esq., CSI., CIE., ICS.,
Census Commissioner for India.

Census. 6-47-1

The Chief Secretaries of Provincial Governments and Chief Commissioners, and
The Chief Secretaries of Major States.

New Delhi, the 16th April, 1948.

I enclose copies of

(1) a note I made after inspection of the Mysore village account system

(2) Order issued by the Madras Government for the preparation of houselists.

2. The first of these will show how one existing system can readily be modified to produce our objective for 1948 i.e. a maintained number system.

The second shows the steps taken by one Government to give effect to its agreement to erect this system.

3. I trust these will be of use and interest to other Governments.

I have the honour to be
Sir,
Your most obedient servant.

GOVT. OF MYSORE

Sir,

I have completed my visits to all Provinces and most of the States which I have direct contact. I sent round a fortnight ago two papers one illustrating how the present Mysore system could readily be modified to produce the permanent house numbering we all have in mind and another which showed how my old Province was setting about the erection of the system within its bounds.

2. I propose at the next census to conduct a random sample enumeration on one or two questions outside the ordinary list. I wish to use 1949 to practise the method in one or more parts of each Province and the main states. I attach great importance to this as a means of securing the adoption of a sound basis of modern methods c statistical attack which will at once be more easily handled, more quickly performed and much less costly. But these methods themselves must be thoroughly worked out and tested.

To enable me to give a first scrutiny before detailed instructions go out I would require to have for each Province the district and tehsil layout already called for in my letter No. Y/4-Census, dated 22nd January, 1948 plus the number of villages
